Arts & Olive Festival History

Established in 1998 as an Art Festival to celebrate the 30th year anniversary of our community college, the Arts & Olive Festival at Cañada College focuses on the area's natural bounty of olives and local interest in arts and crafts. The festival has grown to include Bay Area bands and entertainers, numerous olive and olive oil products, and olive curing. Proceeds from the festival help support Cañada College's student scholarships. The Cañada campus is located within a grove of beautiful olive trees, some part of a Spanish Land Grant and some relocated from the Panama Pacific Exposition (in the early 1900s). For more information about the College, visit us at:

Thank You...

A special thanks to those who contributed to today's event: Bell Carter/Lindsay Olives, Children's Discovery Museum of San Jose, John & Josephine De Luca, Peter Tam, Ron Trugman, Acme Bread, Sam's Italian Sandwiches, Sonoma Raceway, Port of Redwood City, Kathleen Ross, Garden Chapel, Inc., United California Glass & Door, Ronda Chaney, Alana's Café, Happy Hollow, and the many businesses that donated after this program went to print. Also a big thank you to all the wonderful Cañada College volunteers including faculty, staff, and students who pull this event off every year—without them, this event would not happen!

Thank you to the students in the Digital Imaging I – mART 376 class that participated in the creation of the 17th Annual Arts & Olive Poster Contest instructed by Assistant Professor Hyla Lacefield.
