HUMAN SERVICES

at

Cañada College

Redwood City, CA

Do you want to make a difference in the lives of others? Then a career in Human Services is the right one for you!

Human Services is about helping others in your community who are less fortunate. Help people help themselves while maintaining their dignity and pride.

A career in Human Services is also about keeping families together, and advocating for those who need help. You will be helping people address real life problems, and real human needs.

Helping communities out during a time of crisis, and helping with the restoration of situations involving housing, food, domestic violence, or health are also an important part of a career in human services.

Human Services is about empowering people and making a difference in your community. Start today on the path to your new career and make a difference in the world!

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Human Services Program at Cañada College educates students in the strength-based philosophy of helping individuals and families in need of economic, health-care, and social support. Students learn effective communication, counseling, case management, and cultural sensitivity skills; enhancing their ability to work well with our diverse local communities.

Courses are offered year-round in the mornings, afternoons, evenings, and online at both Cañada College's main campus, and at its site in Menlo Park.
