This is grant-funded work through the CCCCO ZTC Acceleration Grant that Cañada has submitted for the MATH AS-T. This release time would be used for Michael Hoffman and other Math faculty to heavily remix and author materials for MATH 225, 251, 252, 253, 270 and 275. The materials will be remixed heavily to contextualize the learning, particularly for those for whom English is not their first language. Additionally competency-based grading and equity-based grading practices will be employed to create new assessments for these courses.

These courses do have existing OER, which our faculty are using. However, the work done with this release time will directly employ inclusive, diverse, equitable, anti-racist and accessible lenses, in ways that have yet to be done.

These duties are outside of D1 in that the faculty will be authoring and heavily remixing existing material for a course. This would be closer to a partial sabbatical to do this work.
